THE JUBILEE.

An Unprofitable, Intolerable Day of Oratorio.

THE HANDEL SOCIETIES' BENEFIT.

"Israel" Consigned to Egypt or Anywhere Rather than Boston.

POOR ENCOURAGEMENT FOR THE FINANCIERS

Evidences of the Decline of the Great Jamboree.

Boston, June 24, 1872. In order to satisfy the members of the Handel and Haydn Society and some other of the New England choruses of Gilmore's Jubilee, this day was given up to the performance of Handel's grand oratorio, "Israel in Egypt." These societies had made their attendance at the Jubilee conditional on a day being devoted to oratorio, and this was the day selected. The directors endeavored to procure a postponement, but the societies were inexorable and threatened to depart en masse mless the agreement was faithfully fulfilled. As it was evident they would keep their word the directors got frightened, for the loss of these singers would leave only the skeleton of a chorus, and, under these circumstances, it was agreed to give Handel's "Israel in Egypt," which these societies had been rehearsing for some months. The general public, as was expected, manifested but little interest in the performance, and the number of people present was absolutely smaller than vesterday.

"ISRAEL" NOT POPULAR IN BOSTON. Oratorio is evidently not popular in Boston; the poverty of the attendance proved that, and also the departure of large numbers of people before the oratorio was ended. A good deal of boasting was indulged in by the friends of the societies as to the result they would obtain, and it is only due to them to say that they acquitted themselves better than most people expected. It is somewhat difficult generality of mankind to become enthusiastic over oratorio, because it goes beyond the general comprehension. The nd and impressive quality of the music is recognized, but people get tired of being impressed and want to hear something they can is recognized, but people get tired of being impressed and want to hear something they can understand, or that they imagine they understand. It was unquestionably owing to this feeling that the solo and duet parts were received with a warmth and appreciation which was not at all warranted by the execution, but the audience felt they were a relief from

of the never-ending chorus. The performance opened with the recitation, "Now There Arose a New King," which was rather ineffectively given by the tenor, Mr. Winch, whose voice was almost inaudible in the gallery. The alto did a little better with the air, "Their Land Brought Forth Frogs." The vast space of the building is very trying in the solo parts, and only those who are endowed with voices of great power and compass can be heard to great advantage. The execution to-day showed pretty clearly how much the 20,000 voices lose in power for want of better training. The volume of sound to-day was not equal to the effects produced by the monster chorus, but it represented a good two-thirds, although not half the numerical strength was engaged. At times the grandeur and solemnity of the music was fully appreciated and a most impressive effect realized. This was especially the case in the chorus

"AND I WILL EXALT HIM,"
which brought out the full strength of the performers and was given with appropriate vigor; but it fell fiat on the audience, who were evidently bored. The duet which, followed, "The Lord is a man of War," given by Messrs. Rudolphaen and Winch, was received with extraordinary enthusiasm, doubtless as a protest, for certainly the singing was not at all deserving of any very special applause. Madame Rudersdorff sang the air, "Thou Didst Blow." But her singing was very poor; her voice was worn and threadbare. It is evident that the size of the hall is too much for her wanting powers. The audience, however, good-naturedly conferred the honor of an encore, but it was cold and evidently par poillesse.

OBATORION OR WANTED.

ORATORIO NOT WANTED.

It is to be hoped that we shall not be afflicted with any more of these oratories or sacred concerts. They are very nice for people who like them, but they are so few that a smaller hall than the Conseum will meet their requirements. As monetary speculations they don't pay. The amount realized on Sunday was not more than about renlized on Sunday was not is seven thousand dollars. The seven thousand domars. The receipts to-day scarcely reach that figure. This is not very en-couraging, and it is not likely that the experiment will be tried again. Boston would break away from the traditions of the Pilgrim fathers if the de-parture could be made to pay, but as it cannot we parture could be made to pay, but as it cannot we may look forward to the resumption of the strictest propriety and a vigorous denunciation of Sabbath breaking. A strong effort is about to be made to retrieve somewhat the fortunes of the Jubilee by making the foreign bands the leading features of the performance. This is a step in the right direc-tion, and we shall gain in good music a hundred fold what may be lost in sensation effect.

With a c winess quite refreshing he struck up "God Save t le queen," with some slight variations. The e xecution would have done little credit to a school git I, and the audience seemed to think so. It required at the natural politeness of the French bend to refrain from laughing, but the look of puzzled amazement on their faces was really entertaining. As soon as I while disappeared they evidently breathed freer, as if a nightmare had vanished. The second part opened with the overture from "William Tell," and in answer to the enthusiast c appliance of the audience the band played I "Hail Columbia," which again caused a demous tration that was only aliayed by the "Marsellaise." The performance was relieved by solos on the sa kelora, clarionet, oboe and saxophone, which cre isted a series of sonsations.

The peccline of the most consplenous was the closing up of the Western Enion Conseum Telegraph effice, which was established under such a figurish of trampets and other which instruments at the beginning of the Jubilee. This was the only time that it has been closed since the performance began, and singularly enough it was the only time that its operation in full force would have been a convenience to its regular and meast profitable customers. Internal difficulties among the managers are not unknown. Mr. Chadwick, the Superintendent of the Collicain, and a maguidentified with the Jubilee from the beginning, has thrown up the sponge on account of a predom dinance of red tape, and a whole platon of his assa stants will resign to morrow. The performens are weakening.

ST. FRANCIS XAVIER'S COLLEGE.

Twenty-second Annual Commencement Last Evening—A Large and Brilliant Audience—The Winners of the Medals and the New A. B.'s and A. M.'s. The twenty-second annual commencement of St. Francis Xavier's College, Sixteenth street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues, took place last evening. It is almost unnecessary to add that the occasion was an exceedingly enjoyable one, as the annual commencements of the famous college al-ways are, and that there was an immense assemblage of ladies and gentlemen present. To be sure the temperature inside the building was not exactly what a well-regulated Esquimaux would have desired, or even what a New Yorker, with the freezing recollections of the last winter yet fresh in his mind, would have diligently prayed for beforehand; but, despite the heat, the friends of the students and the college kept trooping in from the moment the doors were thrown open until the hall was packed to its utmost capacity. The ladies, of course, predominated in numbers, and were by long odds the most enthusiastic portion of

THE AUDIENCE. Besides, they took good care to come in all the glory of the latest fashions; and although it is not to be supposed for an instant that any one of the dear creatures came with the malicious intention in her heart of outdoing any other one in point of "style," it must be said that the array, which met one's eyes at every turn, of "loves of bonnets" and "ducks" of round hats, with their ribbons and flowers and what not all that the modiste knows so well how to set off their costly manufactures with, was something quite bewildering, at least to bachelor eyes. How on earth the inexperienced students, who are not supposed to know much about the fascinations of the fair sex, managed as well as they did, in the face of such attractions, to go through the exercises without becoming utterly demoralized, is a question that may as well be left unanswered. The scene from the stage was certainly bewildering enough to disconcert the most calculating aspirant to A. M. honors, but the "orators of the day" somehow or another never lost their presence of mind during the evening, and performed their part of the exercises with as much deliberation as though they were talking to the heedless ocean waves after the fashion of their old friend, Demosthenes, but with no pebbles in their mouths, and not to an assemblage of grave professors critically severe and a congregation largely made up of pretty girls only too ready to applaud in the wrong place if only for the sake of enjoying a laugh at one another after the blunder.

THE EXERCISES had been as well as well "style," it must be said that the array, which met the sake of enjoying a laugh at one another after the blunder.

THE EXERCISES had the rare merit of being short as well as well selected for a commencement occasion—a merit, by the way, which the managers of other commencements yet to take place should strive to deserve. The fact is, ten or twelve dreary essays, with any amount of chorus singing sandwiched between them to keep the audience from going home in a hun, are too much of a good thing even for a good-humored audience at a commencement of a lot summer night. There were only three speeches by the graduates on this occasion, and hence the excellent humor of the audience from beginning to end. It should not be inferred, however, that the only merit the oratorical portion of the exercises had was that it was short, for the essays were really excellent, and were, besides, well delivered. The first one, "The Law of Respect," which, at first binsh, has a rather indefinite look, was well treated by Mr. John F. X. O'Conor. "Social Discord" was handled in truly masterly style by Mr. Francis II. Wall, and Mr. Michael Cremin's discourse on "Education," while the manner of its treatment might have been distasteful to a certain class of extreme thinkers, was as sound in its arguments as it was moderate in tone.

After the conterring of the degrees a sensible address to the graduates was made by the Rev. James J. Moriarty, of the Class of 1861. The Archbishop then addressed them briefly.

THE EXAMINATION CROP.

It may be said, in conclusion, that the examination of the College terminated on the 20th inst. It lasted eight days for the Collegiate course. The aspirants to the degree A. B. were for three successive days submitted to an oral and written examination in the various branches of mental and natural philosophy. All the other students passed in succession before four different boards of examiners. Each student's grade of success or failure, together with the promotions, were proclaimed on the 21st inst, before the President and faculty of the college. Of all the students twenty failed to attain the number of marks necessary for promotion. Of these fifteen have been allowed the choice of leaving the college or remaining another year in the same class, and five were peremptorily dismissed. The general result gave proof of serious study and auplication.

THE RUTGERS COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD :-

DEAR SIR-The attention of so many readers of the HERALD has been called to the report of the Commencement exercises of Rutgers Female College, held at Steinway Hall last Thursday, that it seems but justice that the HERALD's statement receive a word of explanation. The interests of higher female education, the credit of the only institution in New York which has received from the State a college charter, and justice to two or three of the graduates seem to demand this. While so much injury is done to the interests of female education by those who are seeking to push woman into man's sphere, the attention of thoughtful statesmen in Russia, Germany, England, France, and of America, it ought to be added, is the provisions made for female education. For cen-called to the fact that real injustice has existed in the provisions made for female education. For centuries young women who were to occupy elevated positions in European society have been educated as highly as the young men whose companions they were to be; but this higher education has been received from private tutors. Intelligent men have always observed that no families can be kept up, no high social position can be maintained without thorough mental culture is possessed by the wife and mother.

The demand now controlling European governments for more and more of popular representation is calling thinking men to meet the fact recognized in Napoleon's remark, "What France wants is mothers." The same cause which calls for extended common school education is calling for higher education for the thousands who by their energy are fitting themselves for a higher social position. Hence, even during the past year in Russia, France and England initiatory steps for the organization of female colleges have been taken.

In the State of New York two charters for colleges proper, authorized to confer college degrees, have been granted within the last ten years. The first of these colleges was not at all to after women's sphere, but only the better to maintain her position and to do credit to men in their sphere, the following fact is sufficient testimony. The charter of Vassar College, of Rutgers was incorporated this restriction, "except professional." The people of New York need not fast granted, gave the unrestricted privilege of conferring college degrees. Into the charter of Rutgers was incorporated this restriction, "except professional." The people of New York need not mothers is on joot. Some of the successful business men of New York are already thanking the college that it has given them companions whose culture is the best goarantee that their own position can be maintained with propriety.

As to the report now of the proceedings of the day, it will take many years to make female colleges for young men, afte

OBITUARY.

Charles Murray, United States Navy. Pay Director Charles Murray, of the United States Navy, died in Baltimore some few days since at the age of seventy years. Mr. Murray was widely known in the Naval Department and much respected. In 1843 he was appointed Purser by Prestdent Tyler, and served over twelve years at sea and the balance on land. He was stationed several the balance on land. He was stationed several years in Brooklyn, Mare Island, California, and also at Panama. He acted as purchasing agent at New York for the United States Navy for some time. Mr. Murray was born in Ireland and came to America when only sixteen years of age. During his career in the navy he was frequently complimented at headquarters for the able manner in which he discharged his duties. His funeral took place at Baltimore (where he has resided for the past two years), and was attended by a large number of citizens. The pull-bearers were Admiral Stribbing, Admiral Furviance, Medical Director Grier, Pay Director Looker, Professor Lagur, Paymaster Prichard, Commodore Grundy and J. Y. Bryant, of Washington.

TEMPERANCE LECTURE AT COOPER INSTI-TUTE.

The Right Rev. Ignatius Persico, D. D., Bishop of Savannah, Ga., lectured last evening in the hall of Cooper Union, under the auspices of the Metropolitan Catholic Total Abstinence Union, on the subject of "Temperance." The hall was nearly full, several societies, with banners and regalia, being present in force. The reverend gentleman said that it became necessary sometimes, for the preservation of the morals of the individual, to abstain entirely from indulgence in intoxicating liquors. Intemperance not only ruined the individual, but the community. In one individual it not only destreyed the physical energies but the mental faculties. Great nations of the olden time had been rendered imbecile by it. Alexander the Great, who conquered the world, feil from his high estate by its influence. Among the ancient philosophers, and in the most prosperous empires of the early ages, and even among the Chinese, the Brahmins and the East Indians, temperance was admired as one of the highest virtues. The reverend gentleman was heartly applauded throughout the lecture.

THE CHURCH OF THE MESSIAH.

This church last night invited Rev. John F. W. Ware, of Baltimore, to be their pastor, and it is understood that he will accept. This church, founded some flity years since, has been unusually unfortunate in its pastors. Rev. Mr. Lunt and Rev. unfortunate in 1ts pastors. Rev. Mr. Lant and Rev. Dr. Dewey were obliged by ill-health to resign. Rev. Dr. Ospood, after twenty years' ministry, joined the Episcopal Church. Rev. George H. Hepworth, after three years' trial, went over to the Orthodox Church. Mr. Ware is a Unitarian of the Channing school, and there is no danger, it is thought, of his seceeding, his father and grandfather having been distinguished Unitarian divines in their day.

THE POLICE AND THE STREET ENCUM-BRANCES.

An arrangement was yesterday entered into between the Police Commissioners and the Department of Public Works by which the removal of all street encumbrances devolves upon the police. This has been brought about in consequence or the difficulty the street sweepers have in thoroughly cleaning the streets and to the satisfaction of the Commissioners, through the number of wagons that are left out in the streets during the day and night. These vehicles the sweepers are unable to get under with the brooms, and in many streets large spots are unavoidably left only half cleaned. large spots are unavoidably left only half cleaned. The Police Commissioners intend to remedy all this by ordering a summary removal of all vehicles from the streets, no matter under what pretence they are put there. The manufacturer's half dozen carriages will have to be swept away as well as the fruit vender's wagon. The captains of police are now making a house to house visitation in their precincts for the purpose of asking the householders to assist the Commissioners in keeping the streets free from garbage and in a healthy condition. If the people will not assist the police of their own accord after this the ordinances relating to the subject will be rigidly enforced.

FIRES IN NEWARK.

On Sunday night and early yesterday morning a number of fires, more or less serious in results, occurred in and near Newark. The building on the Passaic, near Belleville, owned by a Mr. D. E. Sanchez, of Newark, and made somewhat famous as the chez, of Newark, and made somewhat famous as the former home and property of the late William Henry Herbert, better known perhaps as "Frank Forrester," was burned. It was situated in the fine grove known as "The Cedars," and involves a loss of about $17,000. The Lodi Poudrette Works, on the Hackensack bank, between the New Jersey and Plank road bridges, were destroyed. The loss is estimated by some as high as $75,000. A kerosene lamp upset in the store of Mrs. Wilhelmina Horstman and set the place on fire. The damage was slight.
